San Jose Defeats S. F. State, 63-56

A fighting Golden Gator quintet dropped its first game of the year to San Jose State 63-56, last Tuesday night at San Jose.

The hustling Spartans shot to an early lead and clung onto it throughout the game, while the Gators tried unsuccessfully to catch up.

After a taste of intercollegiate competition, the hoopsters travel to Treasure Island Navy on Friday night and meet the S.F. State alumni Saturday. Both games start at 8 p.m.

In the San Jose game, the Gators were led by Vic Gipson with 13 points. Gene Busby and Gly Mayfield tied with 12 each.

BUSBY HOT

At the start of the third quarter State was kept in the contest only through the accuracy of Mayfield on long "flip" shots. Busby played a remarkable game during the fourth quarter, hitting on every conceivable type of shot.

Lack of passing accuracy and adequate rebounding was the deciding factor in the Gator loss, but the home court advantage may well have helped the Spartans pile up their initial lead.

In a preliminary game the Gator JV's succumbed to the San Jose junior hoopsters by a 56-47 count.

Extend Deadline For Senior Pics To December 19

Today and tomorrow will be the last chance for February, June, and Summer Session graduates, and candidates for degrees and credentials of any type to have their pictures taken for the '53 Franciscan.

Students may have their pictures taken any time between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, and 1 p.m., and 4:30 p.m. in the correction room of the Rec Center. The cost for the picture is $1. Men students are asked to wear a white shirt and tie, and women students should wear a white blouse. The gowns will be provided by the photographer. Caps will not be worn.

This is the first time in two years that State will have an actual college-size bound yearbook in the future.

"Transition from old to new is the theme which will be carried out through the '53 yearbook," according to Diane Heagarty, associate editor. The Franciscan will be dedicated to Mr. David J. Cox, chairman of the Division of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. Dean Cox was the coach of the first football, basketball, track, and baseball teams at State. Our football stadium is named after Dean Cox.

Franciscan '53 will come out the first week in May. The price will be $3.00. Orders for the yearbook are now being taken with a deposit of $1.00. They may be obtained from any member of the Franciscan staff, or at the Franciscan desk in the Golden Gater office, A3. The yearbook will be mailed to the February graduates.

Divisions Sponsor Annual Christmas Cheer Program

The Humanities division, in cooperation with the Creative Arts division, will present the annual Christmas Cheer week from December 15 to 19, according to Dr. Peter S. Presta, co-ordinator. During this week many activities have been planned in order to spread the Christmas spirit on our campus. Bright decorations will be used in College Hall and the cafeterias on both campi to lend color to the traditional event.

On Monday night, December 15, the San Francisco State college symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Wendell Otey, will present a concert at Commerce High school. Tuesday noon a dramatic group under the direction of Mr. Jules Irving will present in Frederic Burk auditorium a Christmas play entitled "A Child is Born."

The same play will be given Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. together with a musical program. It is sponsored by the Faculty-Parent group, and will serve as an occasion for the students, parents, and faculty to get together after the program. A college assembly will be held Wednesday at 11 in the Baptist church.

The program will begin with two numbers by the college band. Included also will be choral singing by the men's and women's glee clubs under the direction of Dr. John Tegnell.

The A Capella choir will sing a series of special numbers.

The Humanities Christmas dinner will be held on Thursday in the cafeteria, and an entertaining program of song and Christmas cheer, including the popular Faculty Quartet, will be presented. It is at this dinner that Dr. J. Paul Leonard presents his annual Christmas message to the student body. Tickets will be distributed by the Humanities classes during the first week, and will go on general sale in Hut 4A on December 12. Faculty reservations may be made in the office of Dr. Elias T. Arnesen.

As a fitting climax, the Campus Caroleers will sing their Christmas numbers while strolling around the campus under the direction of Mr. Edwin C. Kruth. At the same time the physical education students will feature a Christmas party on the new campus.

WASSERMAN LECTURES ON TURKEY TODAY

Dr. Louis Wasserman will present an illustrated lecture from 1 to 2 p.m. in A210 today on "Turkey, the Straits, and NATO."

Dr. Wasserman's talk will center on the present role of Turkey in the North Atlantic Treaty organization, and the strategic importance of the straits which control the passageways from the Mediterranean to the Black Sea.

The lecture is based on the information and the collection of colored slides Dr. Wasserman accumulated during his tour last summer of the Near and Middle East.

Cagan Joins U.N.

State Instructor in Government Leaves Next Semester For Position as Specialist in Comparative Government

Mr. Leo D. Cagan, instructor of government, has confirmed numerous reports about an appointment to the United Nations. He will leave next semester for a year's leave of absence to become a research officer, division of public administration of the UN secretariat. Commenting on this appointment, Cagan said, "I'm honored by this opportunity to join the most important agency that is capable of developing conditions for world peace." He was selected by the UN as a specialist in comparative government.

The appointment follows an interesting and eventful academic life. After receiving his BA degree at the University of Wisconsin, Cagan did graduate work and subsequent teaching at the University of Chicago. During this time he worked at a variety of jobs, including those of taxi driver, laborer on a cement gang, and clerk in a haberdashery on Chicago's skid row.

In 1949, Cagan was awarded a Fulbright scholarship and was sent, under the sponsorship of the U.S. State Department, to England for a year of advanced study at the London School of Economics and Political Science. While in Europe, he took a three-month hitch-hiking tour through the continent to observe conditions in France, Germany, Italy and other countries.

Cagan, who has been at State for two and one-half years, also announced his forthcoming marriage to Miss Marjorie Robert. The wedding date has been set for Christmas day. Miss Robert will be remembered as the former assistant to the president here at State.—R. R.

Wonderland Hop Christens Winter Season At State

Despite the lack of snow, sleighbells will be ringing Saturday night, December 13, when the Activities Committee's first social dance of the year, "Winter Wonderland," will be held from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the new campus gym. The dance is scheduled to follow the annual Alumni basketball game.

The music of the well-known San Francisco "Sophisticats," will provide the main feature of the evening, according to Paulette Viguie and Carol Wagner, co-chairmen of the dance.

The winter and Christmas theme will be combined in the elaborate decorations planned for the gym. Bids are now on sale in the basement of College Hall. They are selling for 65 cents with student body cards, and 85 cents without the cards.

According to Bert Phillips, Activities Commissioner, the dance is a revival of the annual Christmas dance formerly sponsored by the Associated Students.

World Affairs Meet Saturday At New Campus

The annual International Relations Leadership Conference, cosponsored by the Student World Affairs Council of Northern California and the International Relations Club at S.F. State, will be held at the new campus, Saturday, December 13.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together leaders from some 20 colleges in this area to discuss problems connected with the formation and operation of successful international relations groups. The conference will seek to assist in the training of students in the development and administration of co-curricular international relations programs.

Andy Bisbee is chairman of the conference which will start with a registration and coffee hour at 8:30 a.m.

At 10:30 a.m. State Senator McCarthy will speak on "Youth and International Relations." At 1:45 a model international relations meeting will be held by the International Board of the University of California.

Anyone interested in participating in the conference should drop a note in P.O. box 2033 immediately.

RALLY COMMTTEE MEMBERSHIP SLASHED

One-hundred and seventy-four students were dropped from the Rally committee last week, leaving a membership of less than 70 students. The organization has been renamed the Activities committee, and will handle all social activities, such as coffee hours, concerts, and variety shows, as well as on-campus rallies, exchange rallies, and dances.

Another rally commissioner will not be appointed this year. The efforts of Bev Greenberg, Vic Gipson and Bob Long will be combined to take care of this job.

According to Bert Phillips, Activities Commissioner, "Students will remain members of the committee only as long as they are active and willing to work. It is felt that the activities presented so far this semester have not been up to par, and that with a smaller, more workable group the activities will be greatly improved."

Saroyan Play Will Close This Weekend

Tonight at 8:30 the curtain rises on the fourth of six performances of William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life."

This San Francisco State Theatre production features Dion Chesse, Ted Samuels, Dan Whiteside, Brad Aronson and Shirley Vellarga.

The cast of 27, directed by Dr. McKenna, is one of the largest ever assembled on the Frederic Burk stage.

Tickets may be purchased at the Drama department box office or at the door for 60 cents with a student activities card and 90 cents for general admission.

The play will end its run Saturday night, following performances tonight and Friday.

State Orchestra Presents Concert Monday, Dec. 18

By RON RIDDLE

The San Francisco State college Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Wendell Otey, will give its first concert this year Monday evening, December 15, at 8:30 p.m., at Commerce High school auditorium .

Highlighting the program will be the symphony number 6 by Shostakovich. This work, written for a large orchestra and employing the celeste and harp, will make full use of the brasses and woodwinds, the best that the orchestra has had in years.

Mozart's forty-first symphony—the popular "Jupiter symphony"—will also be played.

Three Bach selections are to be performed. Two of these are transcriptions of Leopold Stokowski, who was guest conductor of the San Francisco Symphony last week. The other Bach number, the formidable first Brandenburg concerto, will feature Lorraine Friedrichsen on solo violin.

Works by Berlioz and Debussy will represent other musical idioms with, respectively, Roman Carnival overture and prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun."

Repeat Examinations In History, Govt. Today

Repeat examinations in U. S. History, U. S. Constitution, and California State and Local Government will be given today at 5 p.m. in A207. These examinations will be limited strictly to those individuals who are candidates for graduation at the end of this semester and who failed the examinations given previously this semester.

Senior Class Bogs Down

The fact that only 10 out of a possible 1200 seniors and post grads turned out last week to have their pictures taken for the first Franciscan in two years is a heavy blow to the plans for the book.

Any yearbook is planned primarily as a record of a particular class, and when the class which has the most to gain shows the least co-operation, then that class isn't deserving of being the subject of a yearbook, or any other kind of record which indicates that they were ever a part of the college.

The success of the proposed Franciscan is vital to the re-establishment of a regular yearbook on this campus. This yearbook must be a success if we are ever to approach publishing the kind of book that other colleges the size of State take for granted or if we are to erase the sub-standard publications which have been thrust upon us in lieu of a yearbook these past two years.

Under the leadership of Editor Jery Kilker, and Diane Heagerty and Sylvia Smith, associate editors, plans for the '53 Franciscan are virtually near completion. With still four months preceding publication in May, more work has been done on the forthcoming annual than had been done on past books over any comparative period. The staff has more than come through, now it's up to the students.

The deadline for seniors and grads to have their pictures taken has been extended one week to December 19. This is it. The deadline cannot be extended again. If the seniors and grads want a yearbook they will have to act now.

THEY'RE ALL ASKING—

No School Spirit at San Francisco State?

By DALE TUSSING

The interminable lament at San Francisco State persists: "There's no school spirit at this college!" If the term "school spirit" means a situation in which the student body is all one large fraternity, follows the football team religiously and worships the players accordingly, and generally tries to have a not-too-serious good time, then the complaint is a valid one.

But if this assumption were true, then State, in order to achieve the dubious distinction of being "spirited," would necessarily lose all of the character it now possesses. Is State well known for its fraternities? For its football team? For its campus social life? For its rallies, homecomings, State Fairs?

UNKNOWN COLLEGE

The obvious reply in certain circles would be that "State just isn't well known." To these people, the same people who decry the lack of an esprite de corps, State isn't well known. But among other circles—those to which we give the rather vague adjective "culturally - minded," State is well known—and generally well regarded.

Academically, the college's reputation is built upon the divisions of Education and Creative Arts, with considerable respect for the divisions of Humanities, Language Arts, and Social Science, as well. Of these, one division is outstanding for its contribution to the extra-curriculum. In the fields of drama and music especially, the Creative Arts department has added considerably to creating a favorable impression of State.

(Our attitude toward the extra-curricular contributions of the Creative Arts division is not entirely laudatory. The cooperation of the department with those in the student body whose responsibility it is to correlate the various activities—granting that the latter may not fully understand or recognize the purposes of Creative Arts, or its natural position in the program of activities—has not been sufficient. It has, in fact, been next to nothing.)

ACTIVITIES PATTERNED

There are many other aspects of San Francisco State's cultural recognition which fall outside the realm of academic endeavor. But there are not enough. The extra-curricular program at State has not been designed for State—it has been patterned after those of other colleges. When the student body response to activities so planned is poor, it is the student body, not the program, which is blamed. Although the idea may be inconceivable to many, is there anything to prohibit an activities program which conforms to the interests and personality structure of the student body?

A careful analysis of the activity needs of State is one step toward a more satisfying college-life experience. Another, less radical, but nevertheless important step would be a unification of the entire extra-curricular program, with the object being the attainment of a more closely-knit student body—one that understands and appreciates the ideas and aims of all the various segments of the school population. Perhaps such a correlation would alleviate the petty conflicts and rivalries now existing between the small cliques which isolate themselves from the remainder of the student body, and thereby neglect the responsibilities of a social institution.

Both a sense of direction and a spirit of unity are lacking. These two needs can never be filled if the social evolution of State is hampered by convention and conformity. They can be fulfilled if the planners of the college activities program have the capacity for impartial and objective analysis of the "who," "what," and "why" of the interests of the student population.

THEY SATISFY—AND HOW!

"I always smoked Chesterfields in college just like my friends" says New York secretary, Elizabeth Lydon, "and here in New York it seems like almost everyone smokes them."

Elizabeth Lydon DUKE '51

AND NOW—CHESTERFIELD FIRST TO GIVE YOU SCIENTIFIC FACTS IN SUPPORT OF SMOKING

A responsible consulting organization reports a study by a competent medical specialist and staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfields. For six months a group of men and women smoked only Chesterfield—10 to 40 a day—their normal amount. 45 percent of the group have smoked Chesterfields from one to thirty years for an average of ten years each.

At the beginning and end of the six-months, each smoker was given a thorough examination including X-rays, and covering the sinuses, nose, ears and throat. After these examinations, the medical specialist stated . . .

"It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

KOGAN'S CORNER
Employment

Looking back over the weeks that this column has appeared in the Golden Gater, your reporter has discovered that there have been a number of rather "odd" type jobs offered by Student Employment by way of this column. After the dust had left old copy reasonably clean and thus legible, we discovered that we have listed everything from "bank jobs," to requests for baby sitters. It is surprising and yet gratifying to note that nearly every job we have mentioned has been filled either permanetly or temporarily.

This week Miss Evelyn Tick sez:

A campus combo wants a gal that can choip like a boid. Said party of the second part must be over 21, cute and curvacious. $15 per weekend night.

An experienced receptionist is wanted for a doctor's office. Hours are from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and salary is $125 per month.

Women are wanted for either daily or occasional child care.

A typist is wanted to transcribe recordings from the notes of an author. Whoever applies for this job should be over 21, have an open mind, and should not be easily shocked. This almost non-existent being may work at home.

A man is wanted for sales work in a clothing store to work 4 afternoon hours Monday through Friday. $1.25 per hour.

A number of jobs are available to men in stock and shipping for afternoon hours. Salaries range from $1-1.45 per hour.

Business Club Will Revive This Spring

An attempt is now being made to revitalize the Business Club, which last semester sponsored visiting speakers, held discussions, and planned visits to Bay Area businesses.

Those interested in the formation of such a club are advised to contact Dave Casto in office A7 Thursdays, 1 to 2 p.m. or Friday, 11 to 12 noon, or leave a note in faculty mailbox 25.

Out On A Limb . . .

. . . WITH HERB COLTON

Fellas, things are going to be different from now on! Operating on campus now is a man who is going to see that you get dated up with the fair sex without having to give blood or write a prize-winning, happy little jingle.

The recent Mary Castle debacle made it quite obvious that something must be done for the male animal. I'm sure the plea for blood is a just one, but we won't editorialize here. The wild clamor to knock on the door of the Castle was disheartening. To what length will man go for a date?

STRICTLY LEGAL

Well, it all could be made easy and strictly legal with the formation of a Date Bureau. The chap behind the idea needs help. He needs it in a display of numbers. The more of you who show up to help him in the organizational work the better.

Gad! What a treat for the guys looking fondly back on the good old days when they were in their twenties! Just imagine, all that would be necessary would be to step up to the desk and say, "Gimme something on the order of Ava Monroe. You know, some little home body that is just contented to spend a quiet evening in the Black Cat cafe."

UNAMERICAN CAMPAIGN

I must admit that the handling of the Mary Castle campaign was un-American. The contest tended to exclude the married men. I was seriously thinking of entering the race for a night on the town with Mary. I was attracted by her picture in the Gater. She reminded me of my mother. I had a new gimmick that I thought might win me top honors in the contest. Since my grammar was weak I thought maybe if I gave two pints of blood the decision of the judges might swing in my favor.

Well, I went home to my wife and told her of my plan. The idea I had was cooly received. She threatened to cut off my allowance. That ended what might have turned into a new and firm relationship.

For the good of old State college I hope the contest victor conducted himself in a gentleman-like manner. The girl might be asked to come back again. Who knows, she might like State men and could request admission to the Date Bureau roll. So let's get onto this date bureau business. Get right over to Dean Wells' office and lay your well formulated plans on the table. It's not required that you have lower division status. It is an organization that could have untold benefits for upper and graduate division students.

Remember men, when you step up to the request desk the motto is "One Per Customer."

MR. SUGAR

State's 'Mooching Male'

By ROBERT HORN

Nearly every semester, a bum or equally colorful and odd character hangs around the campus for no obvious reasons.

We have such a character at State now. He is a young chap who might be called "the mysterious male," because he is evasive and exceedingly difficult to interview.

He has been dubbed "Mr. Sugar" by several students, probably because of his passion for eating raw sugar and other sweets of various types.

Mr. Sugar is a bum. He mooches coffee from any philanthropic soul he can find. He is not noted for his generosity, since he doesn't even pay for his own coffee or food.

He is also very fussy about the way his coffee is served. It must be cool and have a double portion of cream, and of course, it must be saturated with sugar.

Not only does Mr. Sugar bum coffee, but food as well. He will beg a part of a student's lunch and if he doesn't particularly like it, he turns up his nose and walks away.

He was asked if he had a girl friend on the campus. He offered no comment but turned up one eyebrow in a roguish manner.

He also offered no comment to the questions about his past. He merely turned up his nose and walked away.

Who is he?—See page 6.

THE FAST BREAK

Gator Five Drops Outclassed Flyers; Desin Leads State Attack With 14

The Golden Gator basketballers overwelmed an impotent Moffet Field quintet 78-46 last Friday night at the new campus gym.

Al Desin, a springy 6 ft. 2½ in. junior from Berkeley, led the fast-breaking Gators with 14 points—scoring mostly on driving lay-ins through the center of the Flyers' defense.

At one point, when the Gators led 16-7 in the first quarter, Desin broke ahead of the pack, took a pass, and stuffed the ball two-handed through the hoop. "Incredible," as Senator Taft would put it.

Charlie Miller, a junior college transfer, looked especially sharp when he was in the game. Gene Busby and Jim Green also shone in the loose, hustling offense the Gators displayed.

But, as Dan Farmer said afterwards, "They just weren't ready for our fast break. We broke their spirit in the first few minutes." And, perhaps with tongue in cheek, Farmer added: "Another night it might have been just the opposite."

With a 28-7 bulge in the first quarter, Farmer substituted his second team in an apparent effort to keep the score down.

His move had little effect, as they outran the Flyers and piled up a 38-16 lead. The third string went in. Then the game was fought on even terms — both teams unable to control the ball long enough to score.

Starting the second half, Farmer started the cycle over again, putting in the first string, then the second, then the third.

Inspired Stanford Indians Turn Back Soccermen

San Francisco's soccermen ended their 1952 campaign last Saturday afternoon with a 4-0 setback at the hands of the Stanford Indians on Stanford's field. Saturday's defeat gave the Gators a final 4-3-3 slate.

That evening the team had their annual banquet at the New Tivoli restaurant. Ron Kasabian, left wing and Charlie Andrews, left inside, were elected co-captains for the year.

In a preliminary contest Saturday afternoon the State JV's fought to a 2-2 stand-off with the first place Stanford Indian JV's.

JV's DOWN FLYERS

State's JV quintet clipped the wings of the Moffett Field Flyers, 57-48, in a preliminary to the Varsity game, last Friday night.

Lanky Thatcher Nance, playing less than half of the game, led the basketballers with 15 points.

Forward Lynn Carter scored 10 points against the outclassed Flyers.

Critic Views State's Drama Production

By RICHARD L. McCURDY

The only regretable facts about the current production of William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life" are that Frederic Burk auditorium is so small and that this is the last week-end it will be seen. In the second play of the college season, Dr. J. Fenton McKenna has produced a tremendously sensitive and moving theater experience. Rarely is found a good play combined with such superb setting, directing, and acting.

Ralph McCormic, Richard Glyer, and Robert Wait have created a set so realistically "right" for the play that few members of the audience could doubt the reality of "Nick's Pacific Street Saloon, Restaurant, and Entertainment Palace."

EMOTIONAL TRANSITIONS

Shirley Vallegra's mature and sympathetic portrayal of Kitty Duval left nothing to be desired in that extremely difficult role. Miss Vallegra's transitions from the "tough" to the "beautiful" were splendidly effected.

The part of Joe is a difficult one to sustain for the most experienced actors, and Ted R. Samuel did a very creditable job. There were a few times, however, when a little more restraint by Mr. Samuel would have made the emotional passages more believable.

Ed Zeni is to be commended for his playing of Tom, a role which could so easily fall into stereotype. He was fresh and sympathetic always.

BELIEVABLE BARTENDER

Nick was played by Brad Aronson with a wonderful understanding, as was the dancing Harry, by Dan Whiteside, who was seen earlier this year in "Shadow and Substance."

To give all credit where credit is due would mean listing all of the 27 characters in the play. Worthy of special mention for excellent acting, however, are Simon Cohen, Joe Sterne, Dion Chesse, and Victoria Gregorian; Ed Hosack, who played the most believable drunk seen in a long time, deserves special mention.

Any play with 27 characters is a gigantic challenge to a director, especially when his acting area is limited to the small Frederic Burk stage, but Dr. McKenna has made the job seem effortless. He has presented a wonderful play for this college, and it is hoped that the students will take advantage of this privilege before the show closes.

Student Traveler To Set Sail For Tour Of Europe

When the pride of the U. S. merchant fleet, the S. S. United States, sails from New York on February 18 of next year, it will have on its passenger list the name of a student of San Francisco State college.

This is the date Mrs. Joan Matonis has chosen to start a tour she hopes will lead through much of Europe and which will include attendance at schools in France and Germany.

Upon landing at Le Havre, Mrs. Matonis will go to Paris for a brief stay and then will proceed to Fontainblau where she will attend the Ecole Beaux Art school. Conditions permitting, she will later attend the University of Paris and possibly the Bauhaus Art school in Germany.

Time in between school sessions will be occupied by traveling and "just getting acquainted with the people." High on the list of travel is a contemplated trip to England for the coronation ceremonies.

At the conclusion of her European interlude Mrs. Matonis plans to return to San Francisco State college, where she is now enrolled as a sophomore, and complete her studies. She is a psychology major and carries art as a minor.

Cadet Team Visits State

An Air Force Aviation Cadet selection team from Flying Training Headquarters, Waco, Texas, will be on campus December 15, 16, and 17 to interview prospective cadets. The team will be located on the first floor of College Hall from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

In order to qualify for aviation cadets applicants must be single, between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, and have completed 60 semester hours of college work. Eye requirements have been recently lowered.

Veterans entering cadets will be returned to civilian status if they are eliminated from the program. Non-veterans will be required to complete 24 months of active duty.

Members of the team that will visit the State campus are Major Armond Trembloy, Capt. Charles Wiedman, and M/Sgt. Merie Rathburgh.

State Student Welfare Fund Drive Slated For Christmas Cheer Week

A drive to replenish the dwindling Student Welfare fund will be conducted next week by a committee headed by Johnny Lee and Barbara Ebner. This drive will be tied in with the Christmas Cheer week activities. The goal will be gallon jars filled with money. The jars will be placed in the cafeteria, snack bar, faculty dining room, bookstore, student body office, Hut 4A, and the Gator Grill (new campus).

The fund was initiated a few years ago for the purpose of aiding students who are in a bad situation financially, situations of necessiity involving health, doctor or dental bills, and such cases. Actual cases have involved giving money for script books to students who could not afford to eat properly, and another where a milk bill for a child was paid through the student loan fund.

The Student Welfare fund is not in essence a loan; that is, it is not necessary that a student pay back the funds; however, if a student at a later date is able to repay what he has borrowed, his remittance will be welcomed.
